In this seminar, Leonard will explore his thesis that the global monetary crisis we face today is a result of spiritual problems ... in that until people own their natural divinity they have trouble realizing that they have the right and power to print their own money.

Until individuals print their own money and master money, they can't give government the power to print money and we remain trapped in the bankers' system. Realizing that we have the same power as the bankers to print money is basic to financial and economic freedom. A rational money system will support farmers and the services businesses and adult education as well as goods.

We all deserve equal access to money and capital to finance our work and our great ideas. Money scarcity is destroying our civilization and our economic well being, not to mention our environment, because people are "forced" by money scarcity to do work that is not in harmony even with their ethics as well as values to survive in the bankers scarcity system.

Adult spiritual education can be helpful to people who haven't found their divine gifts to the world. When they do find them, the money system can support them if it is designed to do this.

Leonard will illustrate these ideas with actual examples, and we will also discuss follow-up action in terms of community currency projects, in London and elsewhere.
